Presenters:

Marylou V. Fabbo, Partner, Skoler, Abbott & Presser, P.C., Springfield, MA

Marylou Fabbo joined the firm in 1995. Head of the firm's litigation team, Marylou practices in all areas of employment litigation. She provides counsel to management on taking proactive steps to reduce the risk of legal liability that may be imposed as the result of illegal employment practices, and defends employers who are faced with lawsuits and administrative charges filed by current and former employees.

Marylou is a frequent speaker on employment-related topics. She conducts extensive management training, is a published author and an active participant in the community, has repeatedly been recognized as a Super Lawyer by Boston Magazine.

Kimberly A. Klimczuk, Partner, Skoler, Abbott & Presser, P.C., Springfield, MA

Kimberly Klimczuk joined the firm in 2004 and concentrates her practice on labor law and employment litigation.

Kimberly's experience includes negotiating collective bargaining agreements and advising on contract interpretation; and successfully defending clients in state and federal court and before administrative agencies in a variety of areas of employment law, including wage/hour law, discrimination, harassment, wrongful discharge, breach of contract, and workers' compensation claims. In addition, she has assisted employers in compliance matters involving the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs, and drafted numerous affirmative action plans for them.

Kimberly is a frequent speaker for a wide variety of associations and organizations and is an active member of the Western Massachusetts community.

For most employers, employment litigation is not a question of "if" but of "when." However, unless you have been involved in a lawsuit, it is often a mystery as to what actually transpires at trial. The process can strain company personnel and resources on many levels - from the CEO to the CFO to the Human Resource Manager to other key personnel. In this unique program, attorneys from Skoler, Abbott & Presser, P.C., a local law firm that has been representing the interests of management in labor and employment law for nearly 50 years, will conduct a trial that focuses on employment law topics faced by employers in all industries.

Attendees will serve as jury members and will witness and participate in the mock trial from the opening statements to the jury verdict. This unique presentation allows attendees to see how the smallest details in day-to-day employee supervision and management can become key issues when the company is involved in an employment lawsuit. Do not miss this unique experience.
